

QLEAVE POLICY ON NOTIFICATION AND LEVY PAYMENT FOR BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION WORK

For the purposes of notification and levy payment in respect of building and construction work, QLeave will, at its discretion, consider a range of indicative criteria when determining whether building and construction work is discrete work or part of broader works.

- The person, or entity, for whom the work is to be done;
- The financial investment decision (FID) relating to the work, including commencement and completion and/or “notice to proceed” of the work (staged, independent decisions or otherwise);
- The location of the work, for example a parcel of land purchased or leased for a purpose, alternatively the geographic concentration or dispersion of the work
- The nature, purpose and relatedness of the individual items of work to the core work;
- The timeframe and/or stages of the work;
- The description of the work in published documents, including publications from other government Departments and agencies, LGAQ, BIS Shrapnel and Cordells and/or company EIS reports;
- The nature of the workforce involved in the work;
- Local, State and Federal government approvals for the work.

QLeave may take several, or all of the indicators into consideration when making its decision.
